THEY DO ALL THIS BY
PURIFYING THE BLOOD AND STRENGTHENING THE DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

EXPLANATION.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS is entirely vegetable, and contains no liquor. It is a compound of mild extracts. The roots, herbs, and barks from which the extracts are made, are gathered in Germany, all the medicinal virtues are extracted from them by a scientific process. These extracts are then forwarded to this country to be used expressly for the manufacture of the Bitters. There is no alcoholic substance of any kind used in compounding the Bitters, hence it is free from all the objections incident to the use of a liquor preparation.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

is a pleasant preparation of the Bitters for those who do not like extreme Bitters. It is composed of all the ingredients of the Bitters combined with pure Citrus and agreeable flavoring extracts. It is used in connection with the tonic properties of the Bitters.

THE NEWS.

It is quite likely that there is truth in the report that President Grant and Secretary Boutwell are at "logherheads" about the action of the water in regard to the Southern question. In Virginia the Secretary opposed the Walker party, which claimed to be the special representative of Grant's policy. In Tennessee, he has taken an active part against the Senter party, which takes its stand on the Administration or Chicago platform. In Mississippi, he has taken a good deal of ground. The party, which declares its acceptance of Republican principles, measures and policy throughout. The President himself has not attempted interference in any way with the course of the elections; and it would not be surprising if he were unable to justify the action of the Secretary regarding them.—N. Y. Times.

The prominent directors of the Erie Railroad, including James Fisk, Jr., William M. Tweed and Peter B. A. B. are said to have purchased the Pennsylvania National Bank, with the purpose of making it the depository of the Erie Railroad funds on the one hand, and of the City Chamberlain's money on the other. The Chamberlain, Mr. Fisk, has been a remarkable one. From grave to gay, from lively to severe, he now discards his ballet troupes and opera singers, and the dignity and gold of a bank president. However, he did well in all that he put his hand to. He started the old-fashioned managers by his way of conducting the show business. He is expected to prove as brilliant in his latest undertaking.—N. Y. Herald.

The present heroine of the green-room at Baden-Baden, a correspondent writes, is an English Princess. She is, only twenty-two, and is pretty, divorced from her husband, and perhaps, in consequence, dressed in deep black, and long black gloves. She is the latest sensation. She broke the bank, that is, won the amount put up for the day, one hundred thousand francs. This is the amount daily risked by the proprietors, and if that goes, there is no more play that day. The next day she lost all that she had gained, and much more. She keeps at it, playing always very high.

Notwithstanding the denials which have been published by some of the journals here, the Empress is really making preparations for her visit to Constantinople. She is expected on the 30th of September. The Sultan has given orders to have the hand-some of his palaces redecorated and refurbished for her. She will spend ten days in the Turkish capital, where splendid fêtes are to be given in her honor, and will reach Smyrna about the 10th of October. She will remain about ten days, enjoying the beautiful scenery in the neighborhood of that city. From the 20th of October to the 17th of November, when the inauguration of the Suez Canal is to take place, her itinerary is not yet decided upon. It is said that Daniel Faiba, the Turkish Ambassador here, is to accompany her Majesty throughout the voyage.—Paris Letter.

Queen Victoria keeps her sons on their travels. The Prince of Wales has been voyaging and traveling for the last year and a half, and is expected to return from a visit to Egypt. The Duke of Edinburgh, after visiting Australia and South America, is now in Japan.—London Letter.

The French Emperor might have accepted a hint, and taken the trouble to read the suggestion made to him by President Grant in the interchange of congratulatory messages by the French cable. Grant expressed a hope that the liberal policy of France and its position in permitting the cable to land on our shores would be reciprocated by France—that is to say, Grant hoped that the liberal policy of France would be allowed to land in France as well as in America. Napoleon must have understood this hint, and he ought to have seen the wisdom of accepting it. But why was no reply sent by the Emperor?

If women were to wear the same dress as men—that is, if they were to wear coats and trousers, and long-legged boots and stove-pipe hats—they would be able to command the same pay as men for their labor at all industrial pursuits, and professions. This is Mrs. Stanton's idea, and the thing is very easily tried; and if any respectable number of women wish to try it, we venture to say the police will not interfere. The question of pay is owing to difference of costume, then the female workers have the remedy in their own hands. We would be willing to see the experiment tried.—New York Times.

The protest of the Lords shows what a comfort it is to be pious in an establishment, and to believe in a god of property. They have been told that the thing is very easily tried; and if any respectable number of women wish to try it, we venture to say the police will not interfere. The question of pay is owing to difference of costume, then the female workers have the remedy in their own hands. We would be willing to see the experiment tried.—New York Times.

The defeat of the House of Lords on the Irish Church bill does not by any means restore the prompt and liberal policy of the aristocracy and royal family in Great Britain. On the contrary, the bankruptcy of the English people toward their national representatives, and the signs of disintegration. The Prince of Wales, for example, lately laid the corner stone of an orphan home in Herefordshire. The Prince of Wales, for example, lately laid the corner stone of an orphan home in Herefordshire. The Prince of Wales, for example, lately laid the corner stone of an orphan home in Herefordshire.

The royal events are promised to France. The Empress, it is said, will visit the Sultan of Turkey, on the 30th of September, at Constantinople, whence she will probably go to the opening of the Suez Canal. On the 15th of August the Centenary of Napoleon will be celebrated, and France has taken occasion to approve or disapprove the saying of his successor—that homage to great men is one way of recognizing God.—N. Y. Tribune.

A Revolutionary soldier, named James Moore, died at Percy, Jefferson county, Missouri, July 30th, at the age of eighty-two. Capt. Moore was taken prisoner by the English and confined in Fort Gibraltar. He was a member of the Senate and Legislature from Missouri. He had been residing in Northern Illinois for the past twenty-seven years, and only moved to Missouri four months ago.

Father Xanpi, a native of France and aged seventy, died recently at Mt. Hope retreat, near Baltimore. Father Xanpi was for forty years professor of French at Mt. St. Mary College, Emmettsburg, Md.
